Stakeholder Celebrates Klondike Gold Discovery Day

Stakeholder Gold Corp. (TSXV: SRC) ("Stakeholder" or the "Company") is pleased to celebrate Klondike Gold Discovery Day in the Yukon Territory, Canada. Klondike Gold Discovery Day has been a statutory holiday in the Yukon Territory since 1911. Discovery Day falls on the third Monday of August.

Imagine discovering something so valuable that 100,000 people flock to the site of your discovery. This is the true tale of the Yukon Gold Rush. Shaaw Tláa (Kate Carmack), her husband, George Carmack, the son of an American forty-niner, and his partners and brothers-in-law, Skookum Jim Mason and Tagish Charlie (both of whom were Tagish Khwáan First Nations) found gold on Rabbit Creek (now Bonanza Creek) on August 16th, 1896. The next day, they staked claims along the creek. When the prospectors reached Alaska to sell their gold in July of 1897, the news sparked one of the world's greatest gold rushes. Yukon was made into a Territory of Canada the following year (June 1898).

21st Century Gold Source Discoveries

The 21st Century has witnessed a new gold rush in the Klondike, as the hard rock sources of the Klondike's widespread placer gold occurrences are now being discovered. The new lode gold source discoveries will soon exceed in size the estimated 16+ million ounces of placer gold reportedly recovered by placer miners from river and creek beds within the Klondike Gold Fields. The successful search for these much larger gold 'source' deposits is now creating the new 21st Century gold rush in the Yukon's White Gold District.

Since 2008, the pace of discovery has been rapid. The first major hard rock gold discovery was made in 2009 on Underworld's White Gold property, later purchased by Kinross Gold for $139 million and subsequently acquired by White Gold Corp. In 2009, Kaminak Gold acquired the Coffee Gold Project; Goldcorp later made an offer to acquire Kaminak for approximately $520 million, before Coffee was acquired by Newmont. Late in 2012, Comstock Metals announced a significant new gold discovery on its QV Project, later acquired by White Gold Corp. The White Gold District is one of the largest gold area plays in Western Canada.

Stakeholder Ballarat Property

Stakeholder Gold Corp. holds 100% ownership of an 18,741-hectare contiguous claim position in the center of the White Gold District. The Company first secured these claims surrounding Ballarat Creek during the staking rush initiated by visionary prospector Shawn Ryan in 2006. Ballarat Creek has been one of the most prolific placer gold producers in the White Gold District and Stakeholder has secured claims around Ballarat Creek with a view to covering the lode gold source deposit(s) which provide the gold found in Ballarat Creek.

Today, the Stakeholder ground position covers the full drainage basin surrounding Ballarat Creek and the Company believes it has identified the lode gold source(s) for the placer gold which has been found in abundance in Ballarat Creek. The Company's 'Skye Zone' exploration target lies east of Ballarat Creek, elevated above, and within the drainage basin leading to Ballarat Creek. In October of 2023 Stakeholder announced the discovery of two distinct, subparallel, gold in soil trends of 1.9 km and 1.3 km respectively on the Skye Zone.

> "Today, with Yukoners, we celebrate Klondike Gold Discovery Day, and the pioneering traditions which continue to make Canada the greatest frontier for exploration and discovery. Good fortune follows hard work and tenacity, traits which were evidenced in abundance throughout the early history of the Klondike." Stated Christopher Berlet, CEO of Stakeholder. "Our company's objective is to deliver another economically significant gold source discovery in the center of the prolific White Gold District of the Yukon Territory, and our 2024 summer exploration initiatives on the Skye Zone exploration target are designed to deliver on this prospect."

Stakeholder's claims are located in the relative center of the White Gold District, north and northeast of Newmont's (NYSE: NEM) Coffee Gold Project, due north of Western Copper and Gold Corporation's (TSX: WRN) Casino Project and west, south, and east of White Gold's (TSX: WGO) regional exploration initiatives.
